DIYESTUFF ANALYSIS FOR MANUFACTURERS.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—A detailed analysis of dyestuffs imported during the year prior to the outbreak of the European war today was made public by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce to aid American manufacturers in their efforts to supply the dye which formerly came from Germany. The figures show that the total consumption of synthetic dyes in the fiscal year 1913-14 exceeded 29,000 tons. With the reports gathered by Federal investigators available, American dye makers will be able to regulate their output and avoid making the mistake of providing too much or too little of the thousands of different colors.

UNION RIVALS USING BOMBS.
Another Explosion on the Fire Escape of a Theater.
Guests of Nearby Hotels are Almost Panic-stricken.
The Climax of a Series of Other Chicago Outrages.
[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 25.—Labor union bomb-throwers in their career of intimidation and destruction of property invaded the loop district early today. They set and exploded a black powder bomb in the rear of the Orpheum Theater at No. 112 South State street.
The bomb exploded with a noise and reverberation that was heard for blocks. Its destructive force was not great, but, excepting the amount of damage to property, but it aroused and frightened hundreds of guests in the Palmer House, directly across the street, in the De Jonghe Hotel on East Monroe street, and in the Stratoga Hotel on South Dearborn street. Guests in the Palmer House were phoning calling the telephone operator to find out what had happened.
The bomb was placed in a tin can. A time fuse was attached. The bomb was placed on the fire escape close to an iron door about eighteen feet above the street. The force of the explosion tore the big iron door from its hinges and tossed it into the alley. It also destroyed a wooden door and a screen door.
Trouble and rivalry between Electrical Workers' Union No. 124 and Electrical Workers' Union No. 110—the latter composed almost entirely of motion-picture operators—is believed to have caused the setting and explosion of the bomb.
This is the latest in a series of fires and bombs in theaters that undertake to operate their own property. It also closely follows the dynamiting of a labor union official's residence, an attempt to dynamite a garage and its oil tank of a thousand gallons of gasoline and a shooting between rival labor union officials.
Nullification.
REFUSES WARRANT FOR ATTORNEY.
NO KIDNAPING BY FEDERAL AGENTS IN BLACKMAIL CASE.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Judge La Buy in the Municipal Court today refused to issue warrants for the arrest of Maclay, Hoyle, State's Attorney, and five of his aides, charged by Charles E. Eberlein with having kidnaped his client, Mrs. Helen Evers, alleged decoy of a blackmail trust, and seeking to force a confession from her by third degree methods.
Homer T. French and James Christian, arrested by Federal agents on a charge of blackmailing New York man out of $15,000 and abducting the victim and a young woman companion, were granted a continuance until October 2, when arraigned before United States Commissioner Foote today.
Federal officials declare the alleged blackmailers surprised A. R. Wesley, a New York business man, and Miss Alice Williams in a New York hotel, arrested them on a fake Mann act charge, and brought them to Chicago. They were held prisoners in a hotel for two weeks before being brought to "trial" before a confederate who posed as a government official.
The "case" against them was dropped on payment of $15,000. Christian was arrested several weeks ago as a member of the alleged $1,000,000 blackmail syndicate in a raid on a hotel here.

ARIZONA CAMPAIGN FOR HUGHES BEGINS.
STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE IN SESSION AT PHOENIX.
Candidates for Senator and Governor Address One of the Largest Meetings Ever Known in Capital City—Democrats Meet, but Adjourn Without Making Headway.
[BY PHOENIX WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
PHOENIX (Ariz.) Sept. 25.—The Republican State campaign was started in Phoenix today with a meeting of the State Central Committee and formal organization today. Thomas Maddock and Andrew Baumer were retained as chairman and secretary, places to which they had been appointed by a preliminary campaign committee at the Prescott convention.
James H. McClintock was made treasurer and W. O. Foster assistant treasurer. The Executive Committee was selected to participate tomorrow with the State candidates in a party counsel at the Capitol. In every way the session was harmonious and enthusiastic, with all assurances that the united party will be victorious within the State in November.
Tonight was held one of the largest meetings ever known in Phoenix. The principal addresses were made by Judge J. H. Kibbey and Thomas Campbell, respectively candidates for Senator and Governor. The Democratic State Central Committee met today, but adjourned until tomorrow. It has had no preliminary organization, owing to the bitter fight at the primaries between the Hunt and Olney factions. It is expected that Hunt will control the new committee and name its chairman, who probably will be Judge Frank Duffy of Nogales.
GARFIELD TO FIND OUT HOW WOMEN WILL VOTE.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—James R. Garfield of Ohio, in charge of the woman's vote bureau at western Republican headquarters, will leave Chicago tomorrow for a trip through the West to study the political situation as it affects harmony between Republicans and Progressives and to ascertain which way women will vote on national issues in November. He will visit Wyoming, North Dakota, Washington, Oregon, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, Colorado and Nebraska.
DR. EVA HARDING AS AN INDEPENDENT.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
TOPEKA (Kan.) Sept. 25.—Dr. Eva Harding of Topeka, who was defeated in the August primary for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the First District, today filed a petition as independent candidate with the Secretary of State.
WIFE SEEKS HUSBAND DETAINED BY GERMANS.
[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]
LONDON, Sept. 25, 3:02 p.m.—Mrs. Isador Polak, who was awaiting the return here of her husband from Holland, visited the American consulate today and requested aid of the officials there to obtain his release. Polak was removed from the Dutch mail steamship Prins Hendrik when that vessel was taken by German naval forces into Zeebrugge last week.
The State Department at Washington has been informed of the American's plight and a message also has been sent to James W. Gerard, the American Ambassador at Berlin.
FUNSTON'S POSITION AS TO REVIVALISTS.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 25.—Mal-Glen Funston today said he had no objection to the holding of revivals along the Mexican border by Baptist ministers, but that he did not wish such meetings inside the military camps. Revivalists, he explained, ought to obtain meeting places outside, where they would not disturb camp life.
THIRD OREGON MYSTERIED OUT.
[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]
CAMP WITHYCOMB (Ore.) Sept. 25.—The Third Oregon Regiment, numbering 1100 men, was mustered out of Federal service here today. The regiment was one of the first National Guard units to be mustered into Federal service on the President's call, and was one of the first to proceed to the Mexican border.

YES, I DID IT, STATES TOPHAM

Wrote Bonds; Doesn't Think
Charter Forbids It.

Councilman, Back from East, Challenges Critics.

Favors Reciprocal Agreement
with Power Companies.

"I made no secret of it; I don't believe it is contrary to the charter."

In these words Councilman Topham, on his return from Minneapolis yesterday, referred to published statements to the effect that his firm has written a number of bonds of plumbers, filed with the city to insure faithful performance of duty.

"It was a strictly business proposition, and, so far as I know, it was not in contravention of the city charter," he continued. "I court the fullest publicity. The ordinance providing for the filing of the bonds
was passed before I came into office.
I got only 10 per cent of the bonds
last year."

"When I was elected to the Council the bond required was $5000. I got it reduced to $1000. That meant the premium was reduced from $50 to $10. It would have been much in my pocket if I had never had the ordinance changed."

IN THE OPEN.

"I never made any secret of the fact that I was writing the bonds.
My sticker, with the name of my firm, is attached to every bond I write. If I had wanted I could have put on some other name. It cost me more to get the bonds than I ever made from them."

"These plumbers are not doing business for the city of Los Angeles.
Not one of them, I know, does business
for the city."

In regard to the power proposition, Councilman Topham said he always had taken the position that if there was any chance of the companies getting together with the city
he was in favor of it.

"It has to be a question of reciprocity," he said. "The companies have to give to me a little and the city a little."

DIDN'T KNOW.

Speaking of the Whiffen-Kuck
matter, Councilman Topham said he did not know his stenographer was a friend of Mr. Whiffen-Kuck.
He did not know whether or not his stenographer had called up Mr. Whiffen-Kuck on the day the now famous interview was arranged. If any interview was arranged it was without his knowledge, he said. He absolutely knew of no stenographer about it. He said it was true the stenographer at his office had been discharged and given an extra week's salary in lieu of notice. He believed that the proper thing to do when a person is discharged should be to pay for a week in order to allow time to look around for another situation. He said he did not know the stenographer was to be discharged until the young man in charge of the office told him
he was not satisfactory.

He said that while he was in the East a number of clippings from Los Angeles newspapers were sent him, and he consulted his lawyers regarding taking action against an afternoon paper which had made inquiries. That paper said something about looking into the bank-books of Councilman Topham. "I am willing to have any reputable banker or business man look over my bank book, and I am sure he will not find a dollar I have not earned honestly, and I believe I can say
the same for every Councilman," concluded Mr. Topham.

Preliminary.
TRIM FLOOD REPORT.

Special Committee on Flood Control
Findings on Control Problem
to Go Into Proposed Law
When Given Approval
by Association.

At the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon met the special committee appointed by the Executive Committee of the Southern California Flood Control Association, to revise a report to be submitted to the association for final approval.
When approved it is to be incorporated into a bill to be submitted to the State Legislature at the next session.

A general meeting of the Southern California Flood Control Association was called for October 14 at the Chamber of Commerce. Copies of a digest of the report of the special committee in its final and revised form will be distributed to members of the association by mail, that the provisions of the bill may be shaped to the best advantage of all districts represented.

CALLS DANCING
LID TOO TIGHT.

Councilwoman Announces a Swing
at Ordinance; Takes Amendment Plans.

Councilwoman Lindsey,
chairman of the Public Welfare Committee of the City Council, considers the dance hall ordinance too drastic and announced yesterday she intends to ask the Council to amend it. She says old folks cannot dance the Virginia Reel or any of the old-fashioned dances without taking out a license permit or suffering the chance of being arrested. She wants that changed.

"The lid has been screwed down on some innocent dance halls," she said at the Coun-

Miss Ruth Beckwith,
Who was admitted to the bar yesterday and says she will use her tal-ing arranged to take the stump for dates.

GIRL WILL TAKE STUMP.

Miss Ruth Beckwith, Admitted to Bar Yesterday, Says She Will Tour the County to Further Campaign of Republican Candidates.

Miss Ruth Beckwith, who graduated recently from the law department of the University of Southern California, was admitted to the bar yesterday. Following the formal ceremony, Attorney Beckwith announced that she will devote her time during the next six weeks to stumping Los Angeles county in the interests of prominent Republican candidates.

The application for Miss Beckwith's admission to the bar was made by Attorney Frank Dominguez, who spoke in the highest terms of the young lady and declared the bar of Los Angeles county will be honored by the presence of its newest member. Miss Beckwith is about the fifteenth of her sex to be admitted.

Representatives of several prominent women's clubs were present
when Miss Beckwith was admitted.
Among them were Mrs. R. W. Richardson, president of the Women's Republican League; Mrs. Gavin W.
Craig, Mrs. J. F. Durlin, Mrs. De-
Long, Mrs. Marion Bray, Mrs. D. H.
Dean, Mrs. Wilson H. Park, Mrs.
Robinson. Among the men present were Judge Gavin W. Craig, Assemblyman Charles E. Scott, Wilbur T.
Randall, Cecil Betts, Dr. Brougher,
Seymour Silverstone and others.

Miss Beckwith, who took a prominent part in the campaign of Willie H. Booth, said last night she will take up the practice of law, but expects to give most of her time to Republican candidates. She will take the stump for Capt. Osborne.

THIRTY THOUSAND

SHOW CONTINUES HERE TODAY AND TOMORROW.

Persian Pageant, Used for the Grand Entrance, Constitutes a Spectacular Entertainment of Itself and Requires Eight Hundred Persons and Many Animals.

Smoother than ever was the performance of the Barum & Bailey circus yesterday. The entertainment entrained more than 30,000 visitors in the afternoon and evening sessions. Animal actors, from elephants to mice, vied with their human con-feres in giving a faultless exhibition.
Music is ever the soul of a circus, and selections from operas, fantasia and descriptive compositions, besides solos, duets, quartette and the immortal sextette from "Lucia"
furnished inspiration for performers
and a treat to audiences.

A Persian pageant portraying the characters storied in the "Thousand and One Nights" constituted the spectacular entrance, in which 800 participants strode or rode to the sound of trumpets and twanging lyres. A striking feature of this parade lies in the harmonious and synchronous use of some old form of musical instrument by nearly every member of the troupe. Harps, lyres, cymbals and castanets, all attended with the modern saxophons
of the show band.

Elephants charged in battle, waved flags and fired cannon, and when their girl captains fell, received their bodies under flags of truce and bore them away in shrouded biers.
Pigeons flew through rings of fire,
dogs, cats and rats performed new stunts. Lady Daintily riding off in a chariot pushed by canine friends, while smaller dogs walked bareback riders outdressed themselves.

Bears skated and rode bicycles,
bareback riders outdressed themselves.

Life's Gen SOCIETY.

Yesterday at high noon, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. W.
Young, their youngest daughter, Marjorie, became the bride of Leslie Gibbs of Berkeley. In a pretty ceremony marked by its quiet simplicity and witnessed by less than twenty kindred, the bride and groom were united in the presence of decoratively, the note of merriment being suggested by the procession of shaggy yellow chrysanthemums arranged with aristocracy in the rooms and matted in one corner of the drawing-room, where a happy couple stood to exchange nuptial vows.

Rev. L. J. Milliken read the service, C. L. Custer serving as groom-smen. The bride dispensed with the usual and carried a shower of rosebuds and maidenhair fronds, with the becoming frock of white silk and crepe de chine made in the evening short, full mode. She was given in marriage by her father, and chose for her sole attendant her sister, Mrs. Carol Deakin San Francisco, who added to the bride's color scheme in wearing a yellow gown.

At the conclusion of the ceremony
breakfast was served at one long table in the drawing-room, and the bride and groom, with their attendants, left for their honeymoon tour, the bride's wedding gown being a handsome velvet affair with a train of white silk. They are to go to their home at Berkeley, the groom having been for himself a prominent place in the business world of San Francisco.

The bride, a graduate of the Berkeley High and Wallis Dramatic schools, and an accomplished
pianist, was born in Oakland,
where she has lived in this city
for ten years.

Mr. Young.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. W.
Gibbs of No. 1249 Westlake avenue, their daughter, Miss Jessie M.
Gibbs, was married to Mr. Frank N. Young of Pasadena.
The ceremony was held at high noon yesterday, with the Rev. John W. Boyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. For reading of the service the bridegroom will stand in an arch of greenery, and the bride will wear a wedding gown of pink and white carnations. Mrs. J. W. Sharp, sister of the bride-elect, will be the mother of honor and Mr. Sharp-will be the best man. Little Dorothy Dawley, in a fluffy white dress, and carrying a basket of roses, will scatter pink petals in advance of the bride. Mrs. H. L. Porter will be the maid of honor.

Miss Gibbs has chosen a shower of orchids and valley lilies for her wedding gown of white crepe de chine. The breakfast is to be served to forty guests at the conclusion of the ceremony. The bride and groom will be returning from a honeymoon journey, to include Riverside Inn and San Diego. Mr. and Mrs. Young will be at home at No.
1249 Lincoln avenue, Pasadena.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home.) For the first time in nearly ten years trading on the New York Stock Exchange totaled more than 2,000,000 shares. This enormous turnout was reached a half-hour before the close of the market. Nearly one-half the trading occurred in United States Steel and in copper shares, with a new high record for steel and for most of the coppers.

American exports have passed half a billion dollars a month, an unprecedented total. This record, announced by the Department of Commerce, is a new high mark not only for this country, but for the world.

(Abroad.) Small investors are not subscribing to the new German war loan in the same numbers as to previous issues, according to a Reuter Amsterdam dispatch quoting the Cologne Gazette. The paper adds that the farmers are afraid that Germany must suffer bankruptcy owing to the gigantic and ever-increasing cost of the war.

UPLIFT IN SONG.

There is merit in this idea of community singing. Gathering in the park to expand the soul in song and give expression to a common feeling may be a happy uplift for thousands of restless and heart-burny people. What could be more cheering? What could be a better balm for an aching heart that has room in it for a neighbor's pang, too? What device could be more effective for banishing evil thoughts or quieting vicious longings?

LOCALIZING REGIMENTS.

The War Department is considering a plan to permanently attach the various regiments of the regular army to different States; to have California regiments and New York regiments, etc. The regiments would not only be attached to permanent stations in these States but they would depend for recruits upon the States in which they are stationed. It is believed that local pride would inspire the citizens of the different communities to see to it that the "home regiment" was kept full to overflowing with recruits. A similar plan was tried with splendid success in the British army. Much of the success of the British in keeping up their recruiting is, in fact, said to be due to this localization idea.

A HOLY SHOW.

The next election of importance is not to determine who shall go to Washington or Sacramento and who shall stay at home; nor yet to choose who shall feed at the public crib and who shall depend upon the free-lunch tables for his grub. It is to select Los Angeles's best-dressed man, to declare whose coat is the best fitting, whose vest is the most nifty and whose breeches increase the beauty of his legs.

The promoters of the contest declare it is to be a country-wide election to select the best-dressed man in the best-dressed county of the best-dressed nation in all the world.

No special costume is prescribed. If an Adonis wishes to break away from an orthodox steel-pan coat, low-cut vest and black unmentionables he may wear blue breeches with an old-fashioned flap embroidered with golden stars, a white satin vest and a coat of scarlet velvet.

AUTO-SUGGESTED FEMUR.

Prof. Hunsicker of Harvard University is a psychologist of great ability. When properly retained by the defendant in a criminal case he is associated as junior counsel and takes a seat next to the senior counsel. Then, under the direction of his associate, he poiselessly psychologizes the witness on the stand so that his testimony will help rather than hurt the defendant.

In the trial of Albert J. Roper, charged with the murder of his father, the principal witness for the prosecution was made by means of auto-suggestion to give on the witness stand a different account of the killing from that which he gave to the District Attorney. If Roper escapes the rope as a result it may be that the incident will be, as stated by his lawyer, "a fact of permanent scientific value," and it may be that the Legislature of Massachusetts will amend the criminal code so as to make psychological instigation of perjury a felony.

THE CROOKED PATH.

Perhaps we should revise the old theological notion that the broad road leads to hell and the narrow path to heaven. The trail to hell is crooked so that only crooked people attempt to follow its winding ways, but the road to heaven is straight and no straight walker can miss it. So many obstacles are placed in the zigzag byway that ends in destruction that the great mass of mankind prefer the easier, if more monotonous, journey to the realms of light.

Hard work in evil and persistence in wrongdoing may teach a few perceptive geniuses how to successfully find the gates to Gehenna. These few would have made a splendid record had they used only half the perseverance in treading the broad highway to heaven. Every year the sign boards multiply, the warnings are posted more conspicuously. Only the wilfully perverse can stray off into the crooked, dangerous by-path. Hades is a hard road to travel—and at the finish never profitable, materially or spiritually.

THE ZEPPELINS.

September is being made dreadful again by Zeppelin raids in England.

Other chafely features of this war are looked upon by the rest of the world with a sort of stunned resignation and philosophical equanimity. Even gas bombs and liquid fire are horrifying but comprehensible. The German General Staff may have some secret military purpose in the Zeppelin, but to the world at large they seem pointless, futile and inhumanly cruel.

To any one who has seen the body of a poor English serving maid dragged out of the wreck of a Zeppelin raid with her worn patched cotton gloves sticking out from under the sheet the police throw over her to anyone who has seen the shattered bodies of babies torn up by a bomb dropped into a tenement the Zeppelins do not seem to be playing the game.

The Germans are not cruel people; they are not a people who do futile things. There is no doubt some important military reason for the Zeps that come dropping hell fire in through innocent roofs. But it is not a purpose apart to the world.

If it is for the purpose of filling the British people with terror, the Zeppelin raid is a failure. It frightens women almost to insanity; but it does not deter a British regiment from sailing for the front.

The Zeppelins have killed several hundred people since the raids started, but not enough of them were soldiers to win a foot of trench or check a single charge. Considering the loss of the pitiful women and children from a cold-blooded military standpoint, their lost lives are a military gain to Great Britain in the face of a threatened food blockade.

As to the destruction of strategic points and important military material, the Zeppelins must be considered a failure. They have wrecked considerable property in London, but have done no material military damage and are not very likely to.

But even if they had, or if they stood a chance of doing so, is it worth while?

No matter how this war turns out Germany must live in the world after it is over, and she cannot live successfully in a world that is filled with bitterness and hatred. This problem would prove too much even for German efficiency.

Every Zeppelin that drops a bomb among the innocent noncombatants of England makes the future problem of living more difficult for Germany.

WILSON AND THE WAGE-EARNERS.

"All of a sudden," says the American Economist, "President Wilson arrived at the conclusion that ten hours' pay for eight hours' work is the need of the hour, the judgment of society." His deep soliloquy in this connection is of recent birth. Not very long ago he was indifferent on the question; worse than indifferent, positively hostile to the needs and rights of American wage-earners. When President Wilson urged the passage of and subsequently signed the Underwood free-trade tariff law as one of the most gratifying experiences in his whole life he put three million American wage-earners on short time or reduced wages or cut their jobs entirely. The European war, not President Wilson, gave most of these wage-earners work to do and money to save.

The eight-hour, stand-and-deliver issue forced upon Congress by the President affects but a small fraction of the general body of American workers, about one-half of 1 per cent.

What about the other 99 1/2 per cent. whose hours and pay are not affected by the legislation that has been pushed through Congress at the muzzle of a pistol? Where do they come in?

Is President Wilson worrying about these wage-earners? Is he rushing into joint sessions of the House and Senate to demand the remedial legislation that the other 99 1/2 per cent. will surely need when the European war stops and the industrial invasion of the American market gets under full headway?

Has President Wilson any anxiety about hours or the pay of the eight millions of wage-earners who are certain to feel the disastrous effects of the inflow of cheap industrial products from Europe when the war is over?

No. President Wilson is not thinking of these things at all. He is seemingly solicitous about the labor-union vote next November. Perhaps he will get that vote. Perhaps not. It does not seem probable that the general body of American wage-earners have memories so short as to forget what happened to them in the first ten months of the Underwood free-trade tariff law, which President Wilson signed with such joyful alacrity.

It is true that the quick surrender of the President and Congress in the matter of ten hours' pay for eight hours' work for a limited number of railroad workers may be regarded as a victory for organized labor. But it would be well for organized labor as a whole to be looking ahead. The time is near at hand when a protective tariff will be needed to insure any hours or any pay.

DEAD AND LIVING ISSUES.

Lord Macaulay, in writing of English politics, said: "Parties often survive long after the issues which called them into existence have been determined." Our own history illustrates the truth of this aphorism. Events during the last two years have given birth to new issues, but of old issues there is not a single political question which preceded, which accompanied or which succeeded the Civil War that is now in issue before the American people except the tariff question.

The Republican national platform promises a return to the policy of protection and is clear and concise on other questions of national import, while the Democratic platform is a medley and a muddle and contains little by which a Democrat could pick out his party on a dark night. The Democratic leaders, under the guidance of President Wilson, formulated their platform as a Spanish cook prepares an olla podrida. He puts into it everything within reach, from chicken heads to sauerkraut, and when the mess is prepared the guests are expected to eat it with composure, if not with enthusiasm, and for exemption from evil consequences to rely upon a mixture of infinite Mercy with carbonate of soda.

Democrats endorse all the fantasies in finance, all the megalomaniacs in philosophy and all the phases of fool politics with which the country has been afflicted for the last fifty years. It is a compilation of resolutions, a mixture of the resolutions of 1793,

He Will Know November 7.

which opposed Federal interference with the rights of the States with Congressional regulation or control of water rights, banks, railroads, trusts and corporations. There are, however, some omissions in it. It contains no reference to the battle of Bunker Hill or to the Lord's Prayer or to the doctrine of total depravity. It denounces about everything except the climate of Alaska, and there is in it not one kind word for either the Ten Commandments or the equator.

The present prosperity of our country, in spite of the Underwood tariff, is the offspring of the great war. Europe's calamity has been America's opportunity. If it had not been for that war and the immense demand it created, not merely for munitions and arms, but for many products of American soil and skill, this country would have been precipitated by the Underwood tariff into conditions of disaster such as were created by the Democratic tariff of 1893 and from which we were restored to prosperity by the Republican tariff of 1897.

With the close of the war—and it must close some time—millions of men now in the trenches will be restored to work in the fields and the factories and forges of Europe, and our workers will be, as in 1893-4, again forced to compete with cheap European labor, a competition which must inevitably result in a reduction of wages or unemployment with a consequent reduction to European standards of living.

May the good Lord put wisdom and patriotism into the hearts of the people and inspire them to carry to victory the men and the party that will bless and protect and keep in happiness and plenty the homes of our land! May He send blight and confusion and disaster and defeat to the men and the party whose triumph would clip the wings of our eagle and force him to nest among the bats and owls of Europe and Asia.

GO TO WORK!
If the waters of the ocean were to stagnate the great seas would become pools of death exuding disease and evil smells. The purity of the waves lies in their constant motion.

An inactive human mind breeds corruption and mental infusoria. Employment is the salve for sorrow and the cure for melancholy. "If you would banish grief go to work and your grief will sprout wings and fly away." Said J. G. Howard: "Jefferson and the elder Adams led tumultuous and earnest lives. They were immersed from childhood in most arduous toil. They both died merry old men because philosophical thought succeeded the throes of political labor. They baptized till their death in the font of continuous toil. The baptism dispelled the impurities of melancholy."

Bonaparte, in his later days, moped and mused in idleness. He died the most wretched of men. He should have written his life and not drowed it into the dull ears of others. Benton was found busy when smote by the Great Reaper. Youth and prime struggle for a season of rest. It is the maddest of fallacies. The very struggle ingrains habits that in pause will produce misery and death. It is no wonder, in this view of the subject, that an affluent and unvarnished man pursues the game of accumulation until the undertaker bundles his old body into the cemetery. The fiend of melancholy would overtake him in a rustic villa and retirement. His repose and happiness are in labor. Every organ of his body is in fierce labor. Even his dreamland the mind, rudderless, toils away. "Bodily labor," said La Rochefoucauld, "alleviates the pains of the mind; and hence arises the happiness of the poor."

"Come hither, ye that press your beds of down, And sleep not; see him sweating o'er his bread Before he eats it. 'Tis the primal curse,

NOT REALLY HUNGRY.

"Memory of good things gone before." This is the latest definition of hunger by no less celebrated an authority than Prof. Carlson of Chicago University. Hunger, he implies, is in fact a state of mind, not a physical condition. And ever since the world began we have labored under the erroneous impression that hunger is the strongest incentive in human nature; and that it is palpable, insistent and, in extreme cases, painful. Will the time come when Bacon's "Essays" will replace ham and eggs on the well-appointed breakfast table and Lamb's "Tales" be found as satisfying as mutton chops?

This theory that the imagination rules everything has been overworked since Mrs. Eddy first made it popular. Human nature boggles at this new development. At the same time it is true that the odor of beef steak sizzling in onions, when it assails the nostrils, does affect the mind, making us believe that we are hungrier than we previously suspected. When we can train the intellect till it dominates the stomach and can suppress the nose and the palate Prof. Carlson's theory will have a direct effect in reducing the high cost of living.

But "memory of good things gone before" is this all the sense of hunger amounts to? If so, unless we are theosophists, how do we account for hunger in unweaned babies?

It is wonderful to observe how excited some people are able to get over such momentous matters as where the chief of police intends to station the various cops. The air is full of rages and walls because Sergeant Pickles is about to be transferred from the east side to the west side in order to make room for Sergeant Olives. This may be of interest to the worthy officials under discussion, but as a public matter it is our idea of something to yawn over.

In the old-fashioned days the boy who stole watermelons from the field of the farmers did not insist upon them being ice-cold.

REWRITING OLD HYMNS.

[Literary Digest.] The welcome Prof. Patten is likely to receive for his modernized hymns is not cordial, to judge from the tone of some among the lay press. His endeavor, he tells us in the preface to his recently issued volume, is "to avoid the expressions of war, depravity and woe, upon which the emotional value of the earlier hymns depends." His ideal is the expression of social thought, but he realizes that no one can give this "with the emotional force he might give to the themes of war, nature, love and depravity" because "the words and phrases for this new expression of life are yet to be coined."

Mr. Patten bases his case upon inconsistencies in our religious life as when "at a recent baccalaureate service the large audience, after listening to a convincing peace-sermon, sang energetically without a hint of conscience, 'The Song of God Goes Forth to War.'" Our national and religious life, he avers, must be reinterpreted in harmony with our dominant ideals, so he sets to work to rewrite the hymns. The Boston Transcript finds that:

"The spirit in which he has wrought may be gauged as to its literary as well as its ethical purpose by an examination of the change which he has dared to make in such a classic as Wesley's 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul.' Here is the first stanza of Wesley's hymn:

Jesus, Lover of my soul,
Let me to thee be true,
While the nearer waters roll,
While the tempest still is high;
Hide me, O my Savior, hide,
Till the storm of life be past;
Safe into the haven guide,
Oh, receive my soul at last.

"And here is the Patten perversion:

Jesus, Lover of my soul,
Brother, friend and comrade dear,
No temptation can control,
While Thy spirit hovers near.
All I treasure from thee came;
Thy kind deeds all people bless.

This is a classic merely doggerelized for the purpose of bringing it into harmony with modern ideas, religious and social. The process is carried through the great hymns, as far as Prof. Patten seems to have been able to go with them. He even lays violent and Tupper-like hands on 'Lead, Kindly Light.'

The New York Evening Post fears few will vote Prof. Patten a success because "this project is too bold."

"To rewrite 'A Mighty Fortress is Our God,' 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul,' 'From Greenland's Icy Mountains,' 'Lead, Kindly Light,' and others equally famous, with the purpose of 'meeting modern needs,' will seem to many, hardly less a display of effrontery than to rewrite 'Hail to the Chief' or 'Carry On, Wayward Son.' In putting this into effect, it is inevitable that some banks—especially those which have been making a charge greatly out of proportion to the value of the service rendered—will suffer loss of earnings, and consequently much opposition has developed together with a tendency to criticize the Federal Reserve Board, it being overlooked that Congress has made the Federal Reserve Board responsible for the measure. However, the circumspect routing of checks, pyramiding of balances, payment of drafts against balances representing uncollected checks and other unbusinesslike features of the present method are so manifest that Congress will undoubtedly turn a deaf ear to all protests.

The main purpose of the act, the establishment of a system of true reserves, an elastic currency, and a means for rediscount, were immediately accomplished upon the opening of the Federal Reserve banks on November 16, 1914, and as rapidly as possible the subordinate provisions have been put into effect.

"This may please the pacifists, but it will hardly appeal to those who realize that a rich piece of imagery and vigor of poetical march is sacrificed to the spirit of too exact literalness."

RIPLING RHYMES.

KNOWING THE WORST.

Every morning John, the granger, looked with sadness on his corn. It was in a deadly danger, by his hot winds seared and torn. Through the weary weeks he'd tilled it—only tonight made him stop—hoping his toll to build it into something like a crop. It was perilous for water, and the heavens leaked no more; every day was fiercer, hotter, than the day that went before. It seemed to John the granger, as he looked on his corn crop go, that henceforth he'd be a stranger to all things but grief and woe. But when once suspense was ended, and he knew the crop was gone, "Next year's crop may well be splendid, and I'll think on that," said John. "Two bad years don't come together—that would be too fierce, badooks! So next year we'll have such weather as we read about in books." Thus he buoyed his hopeful mortal risings, and when the worst is known, to surprise you with a chortle when you're looking for a groan.

Democratic Protection.

[Philadelphia Press:] The Democrats in both branches of Congress have advanced in intelligence and practical statesmanship far enough to put a protective duty on duty-free in the new revenue bill. Senator Underwood, the putative author of the present tariff law, tried to save its free trade character from being impeached, but could not overcome the wave of Democratic protection sentiment that sought expression in a duty designed to protect and foster the manufacture of American dyes.

We congratulate the Democratic party on this advance. It is to be sure a relatively small step, but Democrats having taken it and turned their back on their free trade record, and protection have been continually in evidence. One by one the provisions of the act have been interpreted, and as rapidly as a careful study of methods and of the effect upon business would permit the Federal Reserve Board has put them into operation. All that is now needed to bring the system to a point of maximum usefulness is a better understanding of its possibilities on the part of both bankers and business men.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK.

CONTRIBUTED TO THIS TIMES.

BY SEYMOUR S. COOK.

Cashier, Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis.

AS ITS name implies, the Federal Reserve Act was intended to provide a system of bank reserves. The National Bank Act made similar provision, but the system adopted, in so far as it permitted the banks to deposit part of their reserves in other national banks, has been held to be unscientific, providing for reserves which were more apparent than real. Not only have these reserve balances been redeposited, resulting in a duplication, or pyramiding, of deposits, but as the practice of allowing interest upon deposits has been obtained, they must eventually be loaned out and therefore become available in case of need only in proportion as the loans could be called in. In the history of the Federal Reserve Act, a corresponding shrinkage of deposits at two or three other points, ultimately resulting in a contraction of loans which produced a dangerous strain upon our entire financial system. Under the Federal Reserve system, national banks must gradually transfer to the Federal Reserve banks all that portion of their reserves not required to be kept in cash in their own vaults. These reserve deposits may be withdrawn only under regulations prescribed by the Federal Reserve Board, and subject to penalties. Surplus reserves, however, may be created at any time by the rediscount of commercial paper.

Aside from the three principal provisions of the act, to furnish an elastic currency, to afford a means of rediscounting commercial paper, to establish a more effective supervision of banking in the United States, probably none will have such far-reaching results as that contemplating the collection of checks at par. The practice of paying indebtedness by checks instead of cash or by bank drafts has grown apace and the expense involved in their collection and the evils which have arisen in the attempt to reduce this expense have presented some of the most serious problems to bankers and business men have attempted to solve in recent years. It was the evident intent of Congress that a check on a member bank should be collected at par. In putting this into effect, it is inevitable that some banks—especially those which have been making a charge greatly out of proportion to the value of the service rendered—will suffer loss of earnings, and consequently much opposition has developed together with a tendency to criticize the Federal Reserve Board, it being overlooked that Congress has made the Federal Reserve Board responsible for the measure. However, the circumspect routing of checks, pyramiding of balances, payment of drafts against balances representing uncollected checks and other unbusinesslike features of the present method are so manifest that Congress will undoubtedly turn a deaf ear to all protests.

COMMERCIAL. LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Dry bean prices have been lowered considerably since pink beans were quoted yesterday for $7 a hundred with Lady Washingtons and small whites $1 higher. Lima beans are plentiful and the range of prices for that variety is $5.50 to $5.75. Blackeyes are dropping at 4 and there is but a mediocre demand for the scarcer kinds. The trade is not buying in large quantities, anticipating a generally lower market within the next thirty days. The Michigan and New York crops of white beans are said to be fairly normal and for that reason it is not expected that the California crop will be in as heavy demand as it was last year.

Cheese prices continue firm with a tendency for eastern sorts to advance. Eastern daisies and twins are new bringing 22 cents pound and Wisconsin longhorns 23 cents per pound. Imported cheeses are still a scanty article and the few dealers who are lucky enough to secure a small part of the supply that finds its way into this city from San Francisco are justified in asking the high prices they are getting. The great demand for domestic Swiss has caused the quotation for that variety to advance to 16 cents a pound. According to advices from Wisconsin, American cheese makers have received orders for 100,000 pounds of Swiss for this year, which no one but an expert could tell from the market article. California cheese is selling by the trade for 16 to 17 cents a pound. The production in the southern half of the State is considerably larger than it was last year, but even at that great quantity is imported from the north.

The better grades of potatoes are raised 5 cents a hundred Monday, no doubt on account of the lighter receipts. There is plenty of good quality stuff, however, which is still selling for $1.50 to $2 a hundred.

There was no activity on the Produce Exchange yesterday morning and the market was unusually dull. According to Secretary Stanley, the receipts consisted of 221 cases of eggs, 65,000 pounds of butter, 500 pounds of cheese, 8807 sacks of potatoes, 1556 sacks of onions, 713 sacks of beans and 4734 sacks of apples.

Will the Country Go As Maine Has Gone?

Dirigo—"I Point the Way"—is Maine's State motto, and the entire country just now is looking to see which way it points. Mr. Hughes, for one, is sure that the finger is leveled directly at him. "It looks good—I don't see how we can lose now," he exclaimed when he heard that Maine had gone Republican.

While Democratic, as well as Republican leaders, profess to find in the Maine vote assurance of victory in November, they agree that a majority of the Maine Progressives have now followed Theodore Roosevelt in his return to the Republican fold.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for September 23d, the leading feature gives every angle of public thought upon the Maine election as expressed by the editorial utterances of leading newspapers on all sides and the personal comments of men in the public eye.

The American public, by reading this article, will learn just what the Republican victory in Maine indicates in the opinions of those best qualified to judge.

Among other very important articles in this number of "The Digest" are:

- Feminine Political Strategy
- The Johnson Victory
- German U-Boats Still At It
- Hindenburg's Task
- Berlin Thinks the Somme Drive Slackening
- Labor Power and Headlight Power
- Is Drug Store Soda a "Soft" Drink?
- Is Popular Magazine Writing Essentially Dishonest Writing?
- War's Effect on Vocabularies
- A Western Blight on Eastern Religion
- Minnesota's Striking Iron-Miners
- Is Albion Perfidious?
- Chaos in China
- Pure and Impure Milk
- A School for Army Motor Drivers
- A Device to Detect Left-Handedness
- The Cost of Niagara
- Electricity Not a Germicide
- Lincoln, Roosevelt and Wilson Compared
- Brands as a Prophet of the War
- Belgium's Fighting Cardinal
- Prayer in War-time

The Melting-Pot of Politics

Here all reports from all parties are so collected and fused that the reader gets a clear, balanced understanding of the whole situation. Every event is described as each opposing side views it. Side by side in "The Digest" you will find reports from the camps of the Democrats, the Republicans, the Progressives, the Prohibitionists, the Socialists. You get a non-partisan, all-sided review of each week's political developments in this always fair and impartial news-magazine.

MUNICIPAL ANNEXATION BODY TO CALL MEETING.

Words of Commendation Come to Councilmen from People Living in Outside Communities Who are Anxious to Join Los Angeles in Order to Reduce Expenses.

The Municipal Annexation Commission will meet tomorrow afternoon to take the preliminary steps toward an active campaign for straightening out the lines of Los Angeles and securing city and county consolidation.

President Betkouski has received a number of letters from people in Pasadena, Alhambra and other places approving the plans as tentatively outlined last week. One writer in Alhambra says the people there have read with interest of the purpose to make city and county government one and although officials of the community may oppose the consolidation, they will support it.

They want the financial relief that would come from having only one city and county officers and they wish to enjoy the same convenience which would result, the writer says. "Hope your annexation commission will take the matter in hand," the letter concludes.

WOMAN'S SHOE CUT.
IS THE CITY LIABLE?

If a city employee cuts a woman's shoe on a city street with a municipally-owned instrument should the city foot the bill for a new pair of shoes?

Mrs. L. Beaver of No. 723 West Third street thinks it should. She made a complaint to the city engineer at Third street on September 15, she was struck on the foot by a street sweeper's shovel. Her white shoe was cut through to the stocking, she said, and the skin of one of her toes was broken. The board referred the matter to the City Attorney.

UNUSUAL CHARGE.
LADS ACCUSE WOMAN.

The discrepancy in their ages might have turned proceedings before Judge Reeve of the Juvenile Court into comedy yesterday if the testimony of three lads, Benjamin Scott, Myer Epstein and John Thomas Williams against Mrs. Mary Margaret Reed, 58 years old, had not convinced the court there was foundation for the charge that she had made love to them.

The boys, all about 17 years old, declared they had been induced to visit Mrs. Reed at her home in Stanford avenue. When the lads learned of their alleged visits they swore out a complaint, charging Mrs. Reed with seduction.

The court is asked to restrain the lads from further visits to Mrs. Reed. Mrs. Reed was held to answer the charge in $1500 bail.

IN AND OUT.
WATER DAMAGE. Property owners complained to the Board of Supervisors yesterday that when the streets south of Jefferson street are flushed the water collects at Ninety-sixth and Main streets, and is injurious to their lots. The citizens were instructed to return before the board in two weeks, when action will be taken after the matter has been raised with the city officials.

WIRE JUDGE. "Come back here," Judge Wood ordered Mrs. Sarah Schneider, in alimony proceedings yesterday. "What about this charge of Jacob's that you took from him copper worth $100?"

The case was called yesterday, but Mr. Seibert was not present. His attorney, Benjamin Stansburg, stated the matter will be dropped. Mrs. Seibert was granted an interlocutory decree January 15, last, on the ground of desertion.

CATCH RUNAWAY BOYS.
Back Home for Santa Monica Lads After Stealing Dad's Auto.

Harry Beadle and George Beadle, runaway boys of Santa Monica, were arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Fox and Nolan when they arrived in Los Angeles in a machine stolen from the father of Beadle.

According to the allegation of Sheriff Stewart of Santa Barbara county, the boys did not come directly to Los Angeles, but crossed the mountains and were first traced to Lancaster where they had difficulty getting gasoline and where they tried to sell an extra tire for some of this motive fluid. They will be taken back home today.

SEARCH FOR RELATIVES.
Search is being made by deputy sheriffs for relatives of one Yoka Yama, a Japanese who evidently committed suicide. The police route possibly three weeks ago, and whose body, much disintegrated, was found in the bushes near the mouth of Foothill Canyon. Letters and papers in the pockets of the clothing indicated the name of the dead man had a pack of poison at his side the method of his death.
